 - had to pay the prevailing rent only for Madras.
 - o In Surat, for an annual payment of 10,000 rupees, exempted from levy of all duties.
 - o coins of Company minted at Bombay to have currency throughout Mughal empire.

French

Foundation of French Centers in India

- Last Europeans to come to India with the purpose of trade.
- Louis XIV, the king's famous minister Colbert laid the foundation of the Compagnie des Indes Orientales (French EIC) in 1664..
- granted a 50-year monopoly on French trade in the Indian and Pacific Oceans.
- In 1667, Francois Caron headed an expedition to India, setting up a factory in Surat.
- Mercara, a Persian who accompanied Caron, founded another French factory in Masulipatnam in 1669 after obtaining a patent from the Sultan of Golconda.
- In 1673, French obtained permission from Shaista Khan, Mughal Subahdar of Bengal, to establish a township at Chandernagore near Calcutta.

Pondicherry- Center of French Power in India

- In 1673, Sher Khan Lodi, the governor of Valikandapuram (under the Bijapur Sultan), granted Francois Martin, the director of the Masulipatnam factory, a site for a settlement.
- In 1674, Pondicherry was founded and Francois Martin became French governor.
- established its factories in coastal regions of India.
- Important trading Centers: Mahe, Karaikal, Balasore and Qasim Bazar

French EIC

- badly affected with the outbreak of war b/w the Dutch and the French.
- Bolstered by their alliance with the English since the Revolution of 1688, the Dutch captured Pondicherry in 1693.
- the Treaty of Ryswick concluded in September 1697 restored Pondicherry to the French
- In 1720, the French company was reorganized as the 'Perpetual Company of the Indies' which revived its strength.

British French Rivalry

- Anglo-French rivalry in India reflected the traditional rivalry of England and France beginning with the outbreak of the Austrian War of Succession and ending with the conclusion of the Seven Years War.
- In 1740, the political situation in south India was uncertain and confused. Nizam Asaf Jah of Hyderabad was old and fully engaged in battling the Marathas in the western.
- decline of Hyderabad was the signal for the end of Muslim expansionism and the English adventurers got their plans ready.

The Danes (Denmark)

- In 1616 the Danish EIC was founded.
- In 1620, a factory at Tranquebar near Tanjore was established.
- Their principal settlement was at Serampore near Calcutta.
- Danish factories were sold to British government in 1845.
- Danes are better known for their missionary activities than for commerce.

Carnatic Wars

First Carnatic War (1740-48)

- extension of the Anglo-French War in Europe which was caused by the Austrian War of Succession.
 - o English navy under Barnet seized French ships to provoke France.
 - Admiral La Bourdonnais, French governor of Mauritius retaliated by seizing
 Madras in 1746 with the help of the fleet from Mauritius.
- ended in 1748 with Treaty of Aix-La Chapelle
 - O Madras handed back to English, & French got territories in North America.
- remembered for the Battle of St. Thome (in Madras) fought b/w the French forces and the forces of Anwar-ud-din, the Nawab of Carnatic, to whom the English appealed for help.

Second Carnatic War (1749-54)

- Dupleix, the French governor → sought to increase his power and French political influence in southern India
- Hyderabad→After the death of Nizam-ul-Mulk→civil war b/w Nasir Jang, (son) and Muzaffar Jang (grandson)

Carnatic→ Anwar-ud-din Khan vs Chanda Sahib.

French supported Muzaffar Jang and Chanda Sahib while English sided Nasir Jang and Anwar-ud-din.

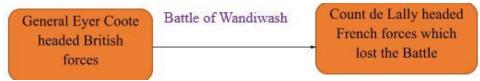

- Failed to provide effective assistance to Muhammad Ali at Trichinopoly, Robert Clive put forward the proposal for a diversionary attack on the governor of Madras, Saunders.
- Robert Clive attacked and captured Arcot. Mysore, Tanjore and the Maratha Chief, Morari Rao, came to aid of Trichinopoly, & of Clive & Stringer Lawrence.
- French faced heavy financial losses due to Dupleix's policy; recalled him in 1754.
- Godeheu succeeded Dupleix adopted a policy of negotiations with English and concluded a treaty with them.
- War ended with the Treaty of Pondicherry in 1754

War

(1758-63)

- Third Carnatic In Europe, when Austria wanted to recover Silesia in 1756, the Seven Years War (1756-63) started.
 - In 1758, the French army under Count de Lally captured the English forts of St. David and Vizianagaram in India in 1758.
 - Battle of Wandiwash decisive battle of Third Carnatic War → English (victorious) in 1760 at Wandiwash (or Vandavasi) in Tamil Nadu.

- Treaty of Peace of Paris (1763): french allowed to use their settlements for commercial purposes only and banned fortification
- English became the supreme European power in the Indian subcontinent, since the Dutch had already been defeated in the Battle of Bidara in 1759.

Causes of English Success against French

- English company was a private enterprise and had less governmental control which created a sense of enthusiasm and self-confidence among the people.
- Whereas the French company was a State concert and was controlled and regulated by the French government and was hemmed in by government policies.
- The English navy was superior to the French navy.
- English held Calcutta, Bombay and Madras whereas French had only Pondicherry.
- French company was short of funds whereas the British had sound financial conditions which helped them significantly in the wars against their rivals.

Reasons for English Success against Other European Power

Structure and Nature of the Trading Company	 English EIC controlled by a board of directors elected annually. France and Portuguese companies: State owned and feudalistic. Monarch had >60% share in the French company and its directors were nominated by the monarch from the shareholders. shareholders took very little interest in promoting prosperity of the company. b/w 1725 & 1765 company was managed as a department of State.
Navy	 Royal Navy of Britain: largest and most advanced victory against Spanish Armada and against French at Trafalgar had put Royal Navy at peak of European naval forces. In India too, the British defeated the Portuguese and the French due to strong and fast movement of the naval ships.
Industrial Revolution	 in England resulted with the innovation of new machines like the spinning Jenny, steam engine, the power loom →greatly improved production in the fields of textile, metallurgy, steam power and agriculture.
Military Skill and Discipline	 The British had a disciplined & well trained army. Technological developments equipped the military well.
Stable Government	 Britain had a stable government with efficient monarchs. France witnessed violent revolution in 1789 and Napoleon's defeat in 1815 weakened France's government position. Dutch EIC, affected by bankruptcy in 1800 coupled with revolution in 1830.
Lesser Zeal for Religion	Britain was less zealous about religion and less interested in spreading Christianity.
Use of Debt Market	 world's first central bank, Bank of England was established to sell government debt to the money markets. Britain was enabled to spend much more on its military than its rivals.

2 CHAPTER

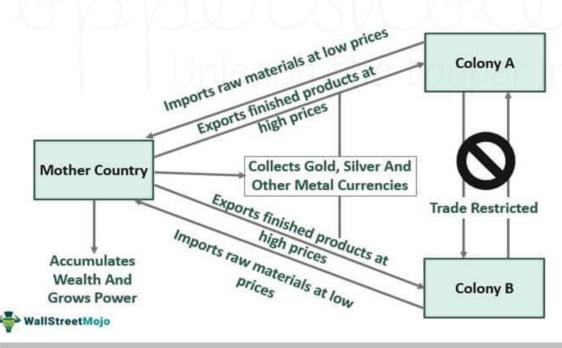

Establishment of British Powers in India

- British EIC gradually expanded its trading activities in India after getting permission from the Mughals and the local rulers.
- During the course of Mughal rule decline, the British EIC developed a political power by the middle of the 18th century.
- British came as traders, and realized that in order to obtain the profits from Indian trade, they had to secure political power, backed by force.

Mercantilism

- economic system of trade from the 16th to 18th century.
- based on the idea that a nation's wealth and power were best served by increasing exports and so involved increasing trade.
- nations frequently engaged their military might to ensure local markets and supply sources were protected

How Mercantilism Works?

Orientalism

- a concept that stresses the uniqueness of the culture and civili-zation of the Orient.
- argued that peace would promote trade and it would be to Britain's advantage.
- Asiatic Society was established in 1784 to undertake research into the past of Indian culture and civilization.

- William Jones, Wilkins, H.T. Colebrooke, W.H. Wilson and Max Muller were well-known orientalists.
- Translations of imp. Sanskrit classics in European languages by orientalists of Asiatic Society.
- Warren Hastings, the Governor General of Bengal patronized Asiatic Society. Halhead prepared the 'Gentoo laws' with a view to ensure stability to the acquisitions of the British in India.
- Wellesley established Fort William College at Calcutta in 1800 to study the past of India.
- Focus of Fort William College was to impart scholarship in Indian languages to the students to enable them to become good administrators..
- The British followed the policy of learning about Indian society to the extent that knowledge enabled the administrators to be conversant with laws and customs of Indians.

"Gentoo" is an archaic term once employed by Europeans to refer to the native inhabitants of India. The Code of Gentoo Laws is a translation into English from the original Sanskrit by way of Persian.

Characteristics of British Expansion in India

Territorial and commercial ambitions of the Company	 Company followed aggressive mercantilist policy in India aim was to find a solution to its payment problem as trade imbalance was a continuous threat to EIC's solvency. Plunder and territorial acquisition emerged over time as the means to address the solvency issue
Growing boldness of the Company	 Decline of Mughal power → empowered EIC to confront weaker rulers. EIC misused the privileges in Bengal given by Farrukhsiyar. Company not afraid of flouting state regulations.
Lack of unity in the Indian powers	 In the absence of an economic transformation of the country the indigenous powers fought unending wars of expansion. Gave Europeans the opportunity to interfere in Indian affairs.
Company's superior alliance diplomacy	 EIC forged alliances with the Portuguese and later with Peshwa (1756) to defeat Tulajee Angre based in Vijaydurg. In Bengal EIC isolated Siraj-ud-daula by buying his rivals; Meddling in internal affairs & involved Nizams of Hyderabad in war against Tipu Sultan. EIVC leaders proved skillful diplomats. They made sure that a lasting alliance of Indian powers against the British never materialized.
Resources of Bengal	 conquest of Bengal (1757-65) provided EIC money, men and material needed to conquer other regions of India. gave EIC easy access to the large military labour market
Vision, cohesion and discipline	 Well trained and drilled Company troops were regularly paid in cash and were better disciplined. EIC officers, all Englishmen, created social cohesion under pressure.

	EIC represented a mercantile capitalist system different from the feudal Indian kingdoms.
Insufficient modernization & institutional weaknesses of Indian Rulers	 Impressed by European military technology and training methods, several Indian states modernized their armies by hiring European military experts. However, these modernization attempts had several noticeable weaknesses. Indian states failed to evolve a system of military finance like the Company did. Shinde state of Gwalior raised battalions led by English, European and Anglo-Indian officers who were paid in the jayedad system. i.e. revenue of a particular area was marked as payment to these foreign officers. the excessive reliance on European mercenaries proved fatal in certain cases. Ex: before Second Anglo-Maratha War (1803-05) all the European officers of Daulat Rao Shinde defected to the EIC under Lord Wellesley. native rulers could not develop a corps of Indian officers because they trusted European commanders>their own relatives due to the constant court intrigue they faced.
Alienation of masses from the Indian rulers	 Indian states fell to the advancing Company during the 18th and 19th centuries or became part of Wellesley"s Subsidiary Alliance treaty system. Indian states did not try to convert their resistance to mass resistance because the Indian peasants did not sympathize with their rulers. Marathas, and the Pindaris which usually accompanied their armies as scouts and raiders, did not endear themselves to the people in many parts of India.

Bengal

- commercial interests in trading in Bengal, as nearly 60% of the British imports from Asia consisted of goods from Bengal.
- In 1700, Murshid Quli Khan became the Dewan of Bengal and ruled till his death in 1727. He was succeeded by his son-in-law, Shujauddin who ruled till 1739. After that, for a year (1739-40), Sarfaraz Khan, an incapable son of Murshid Quli Khan, became the ruler; he was killed by Alivardi Khan.
- Alivardi Khan ruled till 1756 and also stopped paying tributes to the Mughal emperor. Under the rule of these rulers, Bengal made unprecedented progress.
- The friction b/w the English commercial interests and the Bengal government became the chief cause for conflict b/w the two.
- During a short period b/w 1757 and 1765, the power gradually got transferred from the Nawabs of Bengal to the British with the latter defeating the former.

Nawabs of Bengal and the British

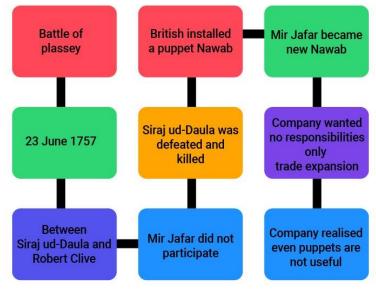

- Murshid Quli Khan was appointed as the Diwan of Bengal by Aurangzeb.
- Shujauddin Khan, annexed Suba of Bihar to become a part of Bengal.
- Sarfaraz Khan took the title of Alam-ud—daula Haider Jung.
- Alivardi Khan nominated Siraj-ud-daula as his successor.
- Siraj-ud-daula prohibited the English from fortifying their factories at Calcutta which led to the Battle of Plassey in 1757.
- Mir Qasim granted Zamindari of Burdman, Midnapore and Chittagong to the British.
